Affiliate Marketing

Another popular way to make money from home is by selling other people's products on the internet. You don't need your own product. Instead, you act as a commissioned salesman – an affiliate. In fact, most of the paid survey and paid to shop opportunities in the prior section have an affiliate program.

You can find Merchants in almost any niche market ready to pay you to sell their products online in the affiliate program directory at Affiliate Showcase. Join online, and get a web site ready to promote. Most offer immediate approval.

Affiliate Showcase also has a great affiliate program (with recurring income). You can promote over 3,000 different affiliate programs from the directory, as well as promoting your own affiliate directory.

"Earn Cash with an AffiliateShowcase site"

What is an AffiliateShowcase site?

Simple: An AffiliateShowcase site is a website of your own -- an affiliate program search engine that you own, you customize, and you fill with your own affiliate links. And then you watch it grow all your affiliate checks.

If you are an affiliate for any program, or you plan to become one, you can now instantly have a professional web presence designed to "showcase" your best affiliate products and services. And if you are an affiliate program manager, you can use this system to help all your affiliates truly succeed.

In fact, unless you are completely satisfied with your income online, you owe it to yourself to try this unique solution, designed to automatically grow your Internet income. It's no wonder that many of the world's top web marketers are jumping in on this right away.

Learning to Market on The Internet

Participation in Market Surveys and Mystery Shopper activities require no particular skills. In fact, much of it is just filling out simple forms on the internet.

Marketing, on the other hand, involves a set of skills that can be developed, and there are some unique skills needed to market online vs. offline. All too often, the new affiliate marketer tries to learn these skills through trial and error. A very short-sighted approach that is intended to limit their cost of entry into a strange new world, becomes one of the biggest deterrents to their potential success.

Successful Internet Marketers have learned to budget both time and money for their own education. They plan every penny they spend on self-development with the expectation of a return that exceeds the expense.

In Closing...

Thanks for reading 25 Ways to Get Paid for Your Advice. It's just a starting point - a way to get beyond the overwhelming number of choices available to you.

Too many choices can be frustrating and usually lead to procrastination. Sometimes, just trying to make a decision on where to start can stop you dead in your tracks.

I've tried to give you choices that

1. are easy to get started with,
2. are free or inexpensive to start, and
3. are easily abandoned.

You should give yourself a reasonable amount of time to succeed with any of these opportunities, but there are a number of different options presented here. If one of the market research opportunities doesn't bring you enough work, it's easy to sign up to another opportunity, or switch your focus to affiliate marketing.

Whatever you do...

Do something. I know of nothing guaranteed to make you fail quicker than doing nothing. Hopefully by limiting your focus you will be able to get started.

One last thing... If you have friends that might find this information beneficial pass this on to them. They'll thank you for it.
